AN INFERO OF CRIME.

THE TERRIBLE CONDITION OF THE INDIAN WOMEN OF ALASKA.

Mrs. Voorhees Relates Some of Her Observations in the Territory—The Indian Women Considered the Lawful Spells of Miners, Hunters and Soldiers—The Horrors of Sitka.

New York, November 12.—Mrs. Voorhees, well-known lady of this city, has recently returned from an extended tour through the great Northwest. To a WORLD reporter she related some of the experiences of her travels. "I have journeyed over eighteen thousand miles by land and water," she said, "but the incidents of the trip have been, I dare say, much like those of other tourists who follow the same route. What has impressed me most profoundly and filled me with a sense of awe and repulsion is the condition of the Indians. It is the awful condition of the Indian woman in Alaska. Travellers hint vaguely at this evil, official reports allude briefly and apologetically to it, but the great world is ignorant of its existence. If people realized that in the wilds of its Alaskan territory this civilized, refined, advanced nineteenth century United States holds a perfect inferno of crime and torture, where helpless women and mere children are being sacrificed and gradually exterminated, surely some remedy might be found."

"I do not know that there is no law—there can be no restraint—and the animality of those who follow the Indian hunting and soldiering life is asserted unchecked. The Indian woman is considered the lawful spoil of these men. They steal them if they can; if not they buy them from their parents for a knife, a jug of rum or a string of beads. If these considerations do not weigh then they make the old people drunk and carry off the girl. A miner will come and

and bear her off shrieking with terror. She becomes the slave of the whole camp and is finally sent back to the horrors of slavery with the rest of the Indians at the appointed time. She is sold to the highest bidder of the horrors of slavery told me of a case which had come under her own observation, as she could not bear to hear the truth in every revolting particular. This lady, by the way, is the first white woman who ever went to Alaska. Of course there may have been some Russian women there before, but I mean the first woman from our country or England. Well, she knew of a little girl having been carried off forcibly by some soldiers and one day, a few months after, an Indian woman came to her exhibiting the child and asking for her to take care of her. Mother," as she called this lady, so go and look at her daughter, who was dying. The doctor said, "She is dead." The white mother crawled through the hole to reach the sufferer, and did what was in her power for

THE WRETCHED YOUNG CRIMINAL.
One day a man who had been the girl's face horribly disfigured. Because she had been kidnapped by soldiers the brave white lady had to go to the Indians and get her son back. A physician came, through whose efforts the child's life was saved. This girl now is eight years old, and is a healthy Indian child in her vicinity. She is a pupil in the school. When I arrived at Tacoma I called on Mrs. McFarland, the lady in charge of the Indian school. She told me that she had just come from the school on Saturday and Sunday with her, and I learned some very startling facts regarding the life of the Indian boys in the school. The Indians before knew something about the Indians before, but what I learned from her was a new revelation. She told me that the Indians had been sent out as a missionary years ago and had been working ever since. She has started three schools for Indian children, and is responsible for the education of all children. She could not repeat the details of the dreadful story told me of the barbarous condition of Indians in that school, but it was speakable. The story I have just repeated is

The Bevier Riot.

MACON, Mo., November 12.—For some cause that has not been made quite clear, another riot occurred at Bevier Saturday night between strikers and a number of Swede miners employed in Loomis & Stivens mine No. 2. A general discharge of guns and revolver took place, and a bullet passed across the street along which the railroad tracks run. The man was injured—Chas. J. Anderson fatally. Henry Johnson slightly and Chas. Watson badly. It is claimed that one of the strikers was killed.

The indications for twenty-four hours, commencing at 3 p. m., to-day, for Missouri are: Warner, fair-weather; southeasterly winds.

The Democratic Central Committee must go.

The work of purifying the Democratic party in St. Louis will not be completed until every boodle boss is relegated to private life.

A MORNING special speaks about the Rio Grande dam troubles. The Hendricks Democratic Association and other war bosses of St. Louis are having a great deal of that same kind of trouble.

THE PROHIBITION vote in Missouri is so small that no one has taken the trouble to count it. Yet it is seriously proposed to make this small fragment swallow the great Democratic party of the State.

HUGH J. BRADY is said to be howling for the scalp of the man who caused his defeat. Mr. BRADY can find the man with the aid of a mirror, and a sharp knife will give him the scalp-lock he wants.

WHILE the St. Louis Republicans are ratifying and celebrating their national and local victories, decent Democrats have excellent cause of rejoicing in the fact that the corrupt party ring in St.
Louis is on its back.

ANNA DICKINSON is suing Boss QUAY for breach of promise, and it begins to look as if JAMES G. BLAINE will have grounds for similar action against President-elect HARRISON. Thus the sweets of victory are dashed with the bitterness of ingratitude.

EDITOR JONES of the Waste Basket is now trying his hand on the "low dives" of St. Louis. It is believed that the lowest dive in St. Louis is the one made by Editor JONES last Tuesday. At least he went down deeper and came up dirtier than in any previous attempt.

THE POST-DISPATCH was somewhat hasty in announcing the death of Hon.
WILLIAM H. BARNUM yesterday, but the habit of being the first to give the news is so strong that it took the bit in its teeth in this instance. We congratulate ex-Senator BARNUM that he was the victim of prejudices on the part of an enterprising correspondent and not of the grim Destroyer.

THE latest device of the canebreaker editor of the Waste Basket is to figure as his own correspondent in letters complimentary of himself and denunciatory of others over the signature of a Democratic Wife and Mother. There is no positive evidence that the editor of the Waste Basket is a legitimate wife and mother, but the evidence that he is the old hen of party journalism stands out all over his newspaper.

WHILE defeated Democrats are charging the recent disaster to mismanagement they should bear in mind that the mismanagement really responsible for it began with the counting in of Mayor FRANCIS, was continued under his ring administration, and culminated in the secret cation at Koetter's Hotel. This is the kind of mismanagement which must be guarded against to avert such another disaster to the party in future.

GOV. HILL received only 4,283 more votes than President CLEVELAND in New York City, and although he ran ahead of CLEVELAND in a number of localities in the State he received voters whom CLEVELAND could not touch. He took the stump for CLEVELAND before the election and made a manly and eloquent speech highly complimenting the President after-it. It will require strong proof to fix the charge of knifing CLEVELAND on Gov.
HILL himself.

THE country has hardly awakened as yet to the importance of the Republican victory and what it will mean to the two parties. Several Territories are entering the Union and the re-apportionment of Congressional districts under the census of 1890 will take place under a Republican Administration. There is nothing in the temper of the Republican party to indicate that it will not take advantage of all the opportunities it enjoys to perpetuate its power, and Gen. HARRISON is not under mugwump influences or pledges.

PARTIES IN ST. LOUIS.

O'NEILL, in the Eighth District, had 2,517 votes more in the recent election than he received two years ago, when he was elected. It was by adding 7,486 to the vote of two years ago that the Republicans beat him. CASTLEMAN, in the Ninth District, had 3,889 more votes than sufficed to elect GLOVER over FRANKIE two years ago. But an addition of 6,864 to FRANKIE's former vote elected him this time. The fact that there were more than 10,000 registered voters not cast in the recent election, to say nothing of at least 10,000 more that were not even registered, indicates the presence in this city of a very large body of voters who were not well enough satisfied with either party to vote for its candidates.

Now in these simple figures is a map of the political situation governing the future chances of both parties in St. Louis.

By managing to retain the large gains and majorities they obtained in the recent election the Republicans can carry all the city offices and hold the three St. Louis seats in Congress. With Republican judges having authority to re-district the city they can safely leave the districts as they are until the Democrats manage to recover the city by enlisting the support of Mr. Cleveland under obligation.

There is positively no other hope for the St. Louis Democrats. Instead of making war on any powerful element of their supporters who helped them to increase their vote by several thousand this time, they must not only hold all they have and win back the thousands of honest Democrats whom a disgusting boosom repelled this time, but they must build up a credit that will enable them to draw heavily on the vote reserves as the Republicans have done. If they wait for Republican blunders to reverse the situation they may have a long wait before them.
The immense vote still in reserve should admonish both parties that neither has a "dead sure thing" on St. Louis, and that it is only by honorable competition for public favor that either can maintain its ascendancy here.

DIVES IN POLITICS.

As a means of diminishing the number of low dives the Post-Dispatch has long been a supporter of the high license policy. As for the laxity in issuing licenses to low dive-keepers of bad character contrary to the spirit and purpose of the law, the Post-Dispatch had to stand alone in arraigning and censuring Democratic Collectors for that sin.

So long as that abuse of a public trust was supposed to be in the interest of Democratic candidates and the Democratic party it received no rebuke from the organ of the bosses. The Post-Dispatch exposed and rebuked it regardless of any mere party interest in the thing.
Not until the dive influence utterly failed in the recent election to outvote the disgusted people of St. Louis, and the Collectors was it to pass to the Republican hands, did the organ of the bosses begin to declare their willingness to swap off the dive influence for the temperance party's vote, and to bid for the latter with an offer of far more stringent legislation against the liquor interest and ingratitude.

EDITOR JONES of the Waste Basket is now trying his hand on the "low dives" of St. Louis. It is believed that the lowest dive in St. Louis is the one made by Editor JONES last Tuesday. At least he went

THE country has hardly awakened as
yet to the importance of the Republican
victory and what it will mean to the two parties. Several Territories are entering the Union and the re-apportionment of Congressional districts under the deal chiefly in Roman history, nor will it contain references to thirty-two separate tariffs that is framed in the interest of monopoly greed. Grover Cleveland has lost his election, but it has unalterably defined and fixed the emancipation of labor.

The Mill State's Vote.

From the New York Times.
The course of the vote in Rhode Island is instructive. The State is given up to manufactures, and the issue was fairly made on the reduction of the tariff, with no side issues and relatively little money used by either side.
The vote was unprecedentedly large. That of the public was 1,000,000, and that of the Democrats 9,500,000. The plurality for Blaine, which was 6,520, has been reduced to 4,427, a loss of 2,313 votes. This is on a total vote of 40,769, which is 25 per cent larger than four years ago.

Editor Grady's Advice.

From the Atlantic Constitution.
It is with deep forebodings that we look into the future. What lies may come to these Southern States so lately put in the way of peace and prosperity, we have now neither the time nor the heart to inquire.

Fortunately the way of our duty is clear and definite. It is to close ranks, stand firm, and at any hazard and in any dispute to maintain the Democratic party in the South. Let us do this, and the people who live there are not decent, and pour whole bottles full of puny wrath on the region without any reservation or exception. Fortunately the limited circulation of the Waste Basket prevents its doing much damage, but to the extent of his little ability JONES is trying to hurt the city which fails to support him.

A VERY DIFFICULT JOB.

THE PLAN FOR CAPTURING HALIFAX WITH LAND FORCES.

Views of American Army Officers—Gen. Kelton Believes the Plan Impractical—Better Land and Naval Equipment Necessary—The Capture of Bermuda Entirely a Naval Affair.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 12.—The Herald's story that the possible fate of Bermuda and the facilities for attacking Halifax by land, published last Sunday, attracted attention among army and navy officers, who are always on the alert for new projects in military warfare. Your correspondent called on the Secretary of the Navy to get his views as to the practicability of the plan on the basis of such a surprise, assuming that there would not be time for preparation on either side, and what he thought it would be possible to do if the time for preparation were given were to defend against an attack. The secretary would have been glad to contribute his views, but as he had an engagement in the rear and the moment for starting was near at hand, he could not linger long enough to discuss the position.

Asst. Adj't. Gen. Kelton, who is a thorough student of the art of war and one of the most broad-minded men in the army, was next seen. He had heard the article discussed, but, like Gen. Schofield, had not time to give it much consideration. From an army standpoint, he did not consider it a good idea to have the land forces make an attack upon Halifax as suggested. Any effort in that direction would necessarily devolve on the navy, the same as with Bermuda. The only assistance the navy could give in the event of war with England would be in the overrunning of Canada, which he considers not a difficult thing. Within a short time, he believed, a sufficient number of soldiers could cross the border and in a very short space of time have Canada at their mercy. But any war with England, he thought, would be extremely costly. The land forces would be vulnerable with the exception of, only in preventing an invasion of the enemy.

On our own borders. Most effective damage, he believed, could be done England by the destruction of her commerce than by any attempt to capture a city. The policy of our navy he believed would be in that direction, for with food supplies cut off from England and the colonies, the mother country would find itself in danger of starvation.

When we are better equipped with modern ships and men, he said, we will be able to capture Bermuda, might not have to do so, but great promptness would have to be displayed. He did not think that at that point it would be necessary to do so, but rather dangerous proceeding for our vessels to attempt an entrance.

On the other hand, before expressing any views as to the practicability of the project, preferred to give the subject the most careful consideration. On first thought, however, he believed utter destruction would follow any attempt to enter the harbor. The ships of the British navy are well fortified for us to expect to do much damage with any of our present or early proposed means of warfare. In the event of the capture of Bermuda, he thought the capture of the British would be impossible. The capture of the British would be entirely a naval affair, although troops would be sent down in transports. At the present time our navy is not in condition to capture the British armored ships are not in condition for active service. This included the double-turreted monitors, the monitors, the ironclads, the monitors, the turrets, and the Combs was finally taken.

HIS PERSISTENCE REWARDED.

Sen. Sherman Sturm Awarded an Allowance on his Mexican Claim.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., November 12.—Gen.

Hermon Sturm, a man who once possessed great wealth, but lost it through his dealings with the Mexican Government, has, after many years of persistent effort, procured the allowance of a claim which will restore his fortune with interest.

At the time of the Maximilian invasion, he entered into a contract to furnish the Government a large supply of arms and supplies. The Mexican capitalists were interested with him in the transaction.

Through the wrecking of a steamship containing a large part of the cargo, he was compelled to make a payment to the Government to cover his loss.

Sturm was never compensated for a part of his loss and the case was in court many years.

Two years ago there was an adverse ruling on his claim, but he did not give up the matter, however, and has been rewarded by receiving an allowance of $2,500 on his claim. He has no money to pay his expenses and he will not realize the full amount. He owes heavy attorney fees, which will also tend to reduce the amount received.

A COSTLY CASKET.

The Funeral of Dr. Miller, the Millionsaire Pill Manufacturer.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

WILMINGTON, Mass., November 12.—Dr. John Miller, the millionaire, who died in the manufacture of pills, was buried here yesterday in a casket which cost $2,000. Four coal black horses carried him to a temporary brick tomb, which cost $500, and at the tomb the casket was placed in a big red cedar box which cost $200. He died yesterday by sixty big brass screws which cost $100. Overalls and shirt cost $100, and the casket ended rather suddenly, another one not equally magnificent and intended to hold the body until the funeral. When completed it will have cost as much as the other, and the two will be placed one within the other, cost of an ordinary casket being three inches thick. The casket was built at a cost of $500. The final resting place to be built at an expense of $1,000. When he is buried in the village burying ground. After the remains were deposited the widow locked the door and put the key in her pocket.

A Bold Robbery.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, November 12.—A daring robbery took place in the city on Sunday. Albert F. Fitch, collector for the Atlantic & Co.'s brewery, was riding through the streets in a cab. He had about $2,000. Near the corner of King street, the face of a young man appeared at the cab window which had been left open. The man, who had been leaning out of cab steps. One arm he thrust through the window and tried to put his hand in one of Mr. Fitch's pockets. Fitch, who had snatched his watch and chain, valued at $100. The collector was too much surprised to chase the man, who had run off. The police were later by Detective Sergeants McGinnis and Keele. He was Jas. Silk and he was held for trial at the Tombs Court yesterday.

BOSTON'S SLUGGER.—While other box weights are wasting breath discussing what they could do if they had the chance, John L. Sullivan remains perfectly quiet, breaking the monotony of his everyday life by occasionally raising his editorial quill for the edification of his New York admirers.

All restrictions upon his diet have been removed, and he eats as heartily as ever and is gaining strength. He attributes his rapid improvement to the exercise of the air every day in preference to confinement in a sick room. He had been out for a ride or walk every day since his return; in fact he's given considerable elasticity to his physician's order to open air exercise. He attends theaters and a few days ago discarded his crutches. His knees are still weak but he feels a steady improvement and begins to realize he is becoming his old self.

"No one but myself knows how sick a man I have been," he said to a reporter. "Mine was not a single ailment, but a complication of trouble, involving nearly all the vital organs. For some days I was a maniac, and it took four or five men to restrain me. After all was over and I was mending satisfactorily I asked my physician to tell me just what my trouble was. He said, 'I don't know.' I did not care to pay for his services. Sturm was bankrupt and others associated with him took his place. Sturm's loss was a heavy one, and I have been unable to recover it on a part of the loss and the case was in court many years.

Two years ago there was an adverse ruling on my claim, but I did not have time to sue. The matter, however, has been rewarded by receiving an allowance of $2,500 on his claim. He has no money to pay his expenses and he will not realize the full amount. He owes heavy attorney fees, which will also tend to reduce the amount received.
